Fulton's First Steamboat Voyage.

The following extract, written by one of the passengers on board of the steamer, we find in an old publication of 1828:

"I resided in the city of New York when Fulton was building his boat, and frequently saw her on the stocks. She was a queer-looking craft, and excited much attention, and not a little ridicule. When she was launched, and the steam engine placed in her, that also was looked upon with ridicule. To the mass of the people, the whole thing was a hidden mystery, and curiosity was greatly excited.

When it was announced in the New York papers that the boat would start from the foot of Cortland street, at half-past six o'clock on Friday morning, the fourth day of September, 1807, and take passengers to Albany, there was a broad smile on every face, as the inquiry was made if any one would be fool enough to go. A friend of the writer, hearing that he intended to venture, said to him in the street, "John, wilt thee risk thy life in such a concern? I tell thee she is the most fearful wild-fowl living, and thy father ought to restrain thee."

When Friday morning came, the wharves, piers, house tops, and every point from which a sight could be obtained, were crowded with spectators. There were twelve berths, and every one was taken through to Albany, the fare being seven dollars. All the machinery was exposed to view; the forward part of the boat was covered by a deck, which afforded shelter for the hands; and the after part was fitted up, in a rough manner, for passengers. The entrance to the cabin was from the stern, in front of the steersman, who worked a tiller, as in an ordinary sloop. Black smoke issued from the chimney, and steam escaped from the crevices and ill-fitted valves of the engine. The clear, sharp voice of Fulton, who was on board, was heard above the noise of the engine and the hum of the multitude. His appearance was confident, his step decided; and he was unmoved by the doubts and sarcasm of those by whom he was surrounded. The whole scene possessed an individuality and an interest which comes but once, and is remembered forever.

When everything was ready, the engine was put in motion, and the boat moved slowly but steadily from the wharf; and when she turned up the river, and was fairly under way, there arose such a huzza as ten thousand tongues never gave before. The passengers returned the cheer, but Fulton spoke not.—He stood upon the deck, surveying the crowd, his eye flashing with unusual brilliancy. He felt that the magic wand of success was moving over him, and he was silent. When going up Haverstraw Bay, a man in a skiff lay waiting for us. His appearance was that of a miller, and the paddle wheels very naturally attracted his attention. He asked permission to come on board, and Fulton ordered a line thrown to him. He said he did not know about a mill going up stream, and came to enquire about it. One of the passengers showed him all the machinery, and explained to him the operations of the mill. After finishing the examination, he said:

"That will do; now show me the millstones."

"That is a secret," said the passenger, "which the master has not told us; but when we return from Albany with a load of corn, if you come on board, you will see the meal fly."

When we passed West Point, the whole garrison was out, and cheered us as we moved along. At Newburgh we were greeted by a vast multitude, as if all Orange county had collected in that side-hill city. Every sail-boat and other water-craft was out. The Fishkill ferry-boat, which was filled with ladies, was unobserved by Fulton until he bore up nearly alongside, when the waving of handkerchiefs and the smiles of bright and happy faces struck him with surprise, and raising his voice he exclaimed: "That is the finest sight we have seen!"

In a letter which was written by Robert Fulton on the 22d day of August, 1807, he says: "My steamboat voyage to Albany and back turned out rather more favorably than I expected. I had a light breeze against me the whole way, going and coming, so that no use was made of the sails, and the voyage was performed wholly by the power of the steam-engine. I overtook many sloops and schooners beating to the windward, and passed them as if they had been at anchor. The distance to Albany is one hundred and fifty miles, and I ran up in thirty-two hours."

A car load of colored soldiers went through Goshen Monday night, going westward, and the Independent Republican man has not slept well since. He is afraid that there is "going to be an election out that way soon."

A Ride on an Engine—Did St. Clair Write This?

The New York Times of Sunday contained a column article headed, "A Ride on an Engine." He started according to his story, from the Grand Central depot on the 8 o'clock express, due here at 10:39 P. M. The engine he says was the locomotive Constitution.—Since the Grand Central Depot was built there has been no such engine on the road. After telling how the "driver" coaxed steam in the cylinders, how the drum of his ear was affected by the noise, the oscillating motion, &c., the writer thus lucidly adds:

On we raced, as if tearing for life and death up to the very last moment where it became necessary to slacken speed in order to pull up at Poughkeepsie station. Once there, where was our furious haste? The engine was as placid as a young child in its sleep, when the driver tried his steam. The fireman was quietly wandering around it replenishing the oil-cups and seeing that all was right; the engineer lolled against the window sill and chatted with me.

Again we started on our wild journey, and gradually worked up to our old high rate of speed; the engine puffing and snorting as if conscious of its power, and shrieking defiance at all opposing obstacles. I had been silently, but intently and fixedly, gazing at it for some time, when the driver called out to me:—"Here's where she went down." I enquired: "Where who went down?" "Why this engine, the Constitution," he replied. "That was the celebrated New Hamburg draw bridge which we crossed just now; the bridge where that accident happened when Doc. Simmons and several passengers were killed." "Ah!" I exclaimed at the remembrance of that awful sacrifice of life; and immediately there was something terrible to me in that almost maddened rush of the engine. It was useless to remind myself of the controlling power of the driver. The sense of the marvelous and fearful power of the engine was, for a while, absolutely overwhelming.

Again the driver spoke to me: "Just fifteen miles to do in twenty-two minutes," he said. Can he do it? I thought; forty-five miles an hour? and again my whole mind was concentrated on the engine. I could not speak.—There I sat, regardless of my grimy cushion, like one held in control by something fascinating, yet appalling. I could no more have removed my eyes from that engine than I would have dared to jump from it; and when the driver pointed to the lights on the opposite side of the river and said, "Here we are, there's Albany," I started from my sleepless dream, like one who wakes and knows that he has seen a vision never to be forgotten; painful, but not to be regretted; fearful, but full of intense interest.

It will be news to most of our readers to read that New Hamburgh has slipped by Poughkeepsie and lodged at a point north of the city.

We should liked to have had the writer on the locomotive with us the night we rode from here to Milton with an empty engine in four minutes. He would have been controlled by something fascinating then.—Poughkeepsie Eagle.

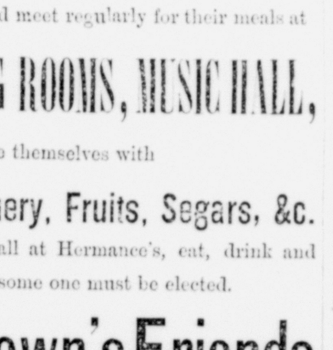
SEWING MACHINES & PIANOS.
THE "LIGHT RUNNING" "DOMESTIC"


Sewing Machines.
The hurly-burly of the Sewing-Machine war is ended. Various manufacturers have paraded their machines before the public, with a great flourish of trumpets and waving of banners. In their eagerness to effect sales, the different agents resorted to all sorts of trickery to trap the unwary, and hundreds of farmers' wives, and farmers themselves, in this county, had forced upon them worthless machines in an unguarded moment. You, who have not yet made up your minds which to buy of the many machines offered, we advise to carefully examine into the merits of the "Domestic." Independent of its many good qualities, (and we believe it to be the best in the world) it is in the hands of a gentleman here, well known to thousands of our readers, who would not knowingly make false representations.—We feel justified in saying that we believe A. Goodrich fully satisfied himself, before taking the agency of the "Domestic," that it was perfect in all its parts, and that he could unhesitatingly recommend it to all.

THE DAILY FREEMAN.

CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 29, 1872.

The Condition of the Wallkill Valley Railway.

This issue of the FREEMAN contains the annual report of THOMAS CORNELL, President of the Wallkill Valley Railway; a paper which will attract the attention of all intelligent readers, but especially those living in Kingston, Rosendale, New Paltz, Gardiner and Shawangunk, the towns which are bonded for stock now held by them. The report in itself is a plain, concise, straightforward document, which smacks like business. There are no useless words or vain accusations in it, such as marked the last report of the only other road of the kind in our county. This is a guarantee that earnestness will mark its future instead of selfishness and peculation.

When the tax-payer looks over the array of assets and liabilities, as well as the account of the money already expended on the road, we have no doubt he will shrug his shoulders in disgust at the bonding system. Thirty-three miles of road have already cost at par value, $1,959,854,19, and yet the track on eight miles of this thirty-three is not laid or ballasted. Add to this fearful array of figures the fact that the cost for running the road during the past month has exceeded the receipts by nearly $2,000, makes a still more distasteful sight.

When men see that the cost has been nearly $50,000 per mile, and know the geography of the section through which the road runs, they will be apt to think there has been speculation at the expense of the railway. The fact is very plain, that if there have not been any illegitimate allowances, the amounts paid for discounts, commissions, etc., have been so large that they warrant a dissatisfaction on the part of the stockholders.

There is one phase to this picture that draws charity out of the review, which is the ignorance of all the late managers of the road in railroad management and construction. There was not one man connected with it, except the engineer, who had taken the first lesson in railroading, either in theory or practice. As a sequence the cost was high.

Another mistake was made in making the track a broad gauge. Six feet has long since proved too expensive in construction and running expenses to pay. The necessity for a connection with the Erie naturally led the officers into the folly of adopting it, but they fell more easily into the snare through their ignorance.

How the road is to get out of its troubles we can not state. One thing is certain; the gauge must be made narrower, and the Company own its own rolling stock. As it is now run the cost for one train per day is $80 per 100 miles, while the track has to be kept in order by the Company. This is truly a serious state of things, to be weighed without passion or selfishness. To that end we commend all thoughtful readers.

Low Price of Coal.

On Thursday the D. & H. Canal Company lowered the price of coal to $4 for chestnut and $4.50 for stove. This is the lowest retail price coal has reached in years at this place, the price having generally been above that ruling at other places.

The news will be received with great pleasure by consumers, who will make haste to lay in their supply for winter. We have had occasion for some years in succession to urge the lowering of the retail price at this place, as we felt that it was not fair to our citizens that they should be compelled to pay more than those at other points at some distance from the coal depots. The reason we have heard given was that the Company kept up the price that the dealers regularly supplied by it at Kingston could make a profit.

Now that the Company has lowered the price there is complaint among the dealers that the price has been lowered just as they are fully stocked. This complaint seems just, provided the Company has anticipated the dealers in lowering prices.—Our advertising columns, however, show that it has followed, and not led. A sharp competition has been in operation for some time among our dealers, and they have lowered their prices in competition, until one of them announced his rates in Thursday morning's Daily at $4 and $4.50. So it would seem that the Company had been undersold in its own market, and had to lower or stop retailing. The dealers make a fair profit, however, on the price they pay.

What People Would Like to Know.

The Litchfields seem to be fair men, especially the younger one; but we would like to know how they or he means to gain a character in this community in company with John C. Brodhead? He, having been engaged in all sorts of frauds, cannot give character to any old companions much less to strangers. How is this?

The Plank Road and Railroad.

There has been such an increase in the travel over the Ulster and Delaware Plank Road, that that portion of it between Shokan and 8 mile gate has been leased by William V. N. Boice, who proposes to make money out of it. This had been abandoned, but the high tolls on the New York, Kingston and Syracuse Railroad make it cheaper for lumbermen to cart their stuff to market with wagons than by rail. This is not as it ought to be. The towns are heavily taxed for the construction of the railway, wherefore it should be run on an accommodating basis.

The excuse for high tariffs is that the road don't pay. This is plausible, but a good business man can easily see that high rates take away so much trade that it diminishes the receipts. The road can gain by offering inducements to freighters to patronize them and must lose by driving them to other means for transportation.

Report of the Wallkill Valley Railway Company.

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE WALLKILL VALLEY RAILWAY CO.:

GENTLEMEN:—I submit herewith a report of the Financial and General condition of the Wallkill Valley Railway Company, on the 25th day of May, 1872, that being the date of my election as President.

Owing to the condition in which I found the accounts, there may be some minor errors in the reports, but as a whole they are as nearly correct as it was possible to make them.

There has been expended in the construction of the road from its organization $1,959,854.16, which is made up of the par value of Individual and Town Stock Subscriptions, the First and Second Mortgage Bonds sold, and the unliquidated liabilities. The Town Bonds, the First Mortgage Bonds and that portion of the Second Mortgage Bonds sold, were disposed of at a discount in the aggregate of $210,560.00, leaving $1,749,294.16 in money or its equivalent expended. For the details I refer you to reports attached.

The Liabilities at this date were $391,534,35, for the payment of which there was in the hands of the Treasurer $168,175 00 realized from the sale of $217,000 First Mortgage Bonds ordered sold by the Board of Directors May 25th, 1872. The accounts show as on hand $600 in First and $288,500 in Second Mortgage Bonds, of which $181,000 are hypothecated for money borrowed, and $16,090 18 due from Towns and Individual stock subscriptions of doubtful value. In addition to the above liabilities my attention has been called to a number of old bills against the Company, which are not included. I have included in the liabilities the estimate cost of laying track and ballasting the same from Rosendale to Kingston; also of the construction of Telegraph Line.

No provision has been made for Right of Way or Station Buildings in the City of Kingston. A large portion of the Right of Way between Gardiner and Kingston is still in an unsettled condition.

The bonded debt on May 25th was $854,900 ($714,400 First, and $140,500 Second Mortgage Bonds) bearing an annual interest of $59,843, gold.

I attach hereto a statement of the Earnings and Expenditures of the Road for the month of May, 1872; showing the Earnings to be $2,617.02 and the Operating Expenditures $4,046.98.

The condition of the track on the entire line, and of the road-bed on a portion, is very bad. It is necessary during the coming year to replace about 5000 worn-out ties with new ones; also to place in the track about 7,000 additional ties.

In order to put the track in such condition as to enable us to run trains at the ordinary speed with safety, I deem it necessary to place on the road a Gravel Train, to commence at Montgomery, for the purpose of thoroughly graveling and ditching the road from there to Rosendale. To do this it will be necessary to purchase or lease an additional locomotive and five platform cars. The locomotive and cars we now have will be required for laying track and ballasting between Rosendale and Kingston. A thorough overhauling of the open structures between Montgomery and New Paltz must be made at once. This will require a renewal of some timber and a portion of the masonry.

It is shown by this report that the available funds of the Company are exhausted, and the condition of the road anything but prosperous. We, however, are obliged to accept the condition of things as they are.

* * * * *

Respectfully submitted,
THOMAS CORNELL, President.

After the submission of this Report a Committee, consisting of Thomas Cornell, Robert H. Berdell and A. S. Murray, was appointed to devise means to place the affairs of the Company on a sound financial basis and report at an adjourned meeting.

There are few nobler acts recorded than the following, which we find in an exchange: "A colored fisherman named Young was crossing the Mississippi, at Helena, one stormy night recently with his young child with him in the boat. When in the middle of the river the water began to dash over the side of the low punt, and it was evident that the craft would sink in a moment unless relieved of some of its load. Putting his child securely in the middle of the craft, the father jumped into the river, was washed away and drowned. A party from the bank went to the rescue and recovered the boat and child, but the man was never seen afterward."

A lovely little domestic incident is recorded by The Watertown (Wis.) Democrat. A husband and wife who had been divorced, met at the railway depot in that place, the latter having their child only nine months old with her. This poor infant the woman wished to leave with its father, but he declined to receive it.—So it was left to its fate on the platform, the mother starting down the railway track and disappearing. The baby, however, was in better luck than might have been anticipated, for certain Samaritans who witnessed the heartless transaction cared for the little waif, which has been adopted by a family in Watertown.

CUBA.

HAVANA, June 28.

Senor Zabalza, the new governor of Havana, was taken ill yesterday with vomito.

The whole number of armed Insurgents who surrendered at Las Tunas in a single week, was 102. The rebellion in that jurisdiction is considered at an end for the present.

VIRGINIA CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

RICHMOND, Va., June 28.

The State Conservative Convention re-assembled this forenoon and elected the following delegates at large to Baltimore: Hon. Thos. S. Bocock, Hon. John B. Baldwin, Judge Robert Ould and Lieut. Gov. John L. Marye. All the delegates are regarded as favorable to the Cincinnati Convention. The Convention then took a recess until to-night.

STEAMER EDGAR STEWART DIFFICULTY.

ASPINWALL June 21.

The misunderstanding between the American consul and the local authorities in regard to the steamer Edgar Stewart, is becoming serious. The consul persists in retaining possession of the steamer, and has sent instructions to the commander of the United States man of war Wyoming, to allow no interference with her.

DECISION IN REGARD TO INDIRECT CLAIMS.

GENEVA, June 28.

The Board of Arbitration met to-day, when its final decision was put on record rejecting the claims of the United States for indirect damages, and likewise a demand from Great Britain for a protracted adjournment of the Tribunal. The next sitting will take place July 15th, by which time Lord Tenterden will be able to have the argument on the part of Great Britain put in printed form. Count Sclopis, president of the board, to-day congratulated the arbitrators on the wisdom and perseverance displayed in their deliberations. A brief official report of the proceedings of the board furnished to the press, reveals nothing which has not been anticipated by the full statements made yesterday evening in the British Houses of Parliament.

BOSTON COLISEUM.

BOSTON, June 28.

The audience this afternoon was very large. The English, German and French bands, Ninth Regiment band of New York, Peschka Leutner, Berlin Cornet Quartette, Arbuckle and Strauss, were features of the peculiarly instrumental programme.

The French band performed "The Beautiful Blue Danube" out of compliment to Strauss. Arbuckle's cornet solo "Alexis" was received with marked favor, and encored. The French band performed this evening.

C. W. Gluck of the executive committee, aldermen Cutler and Newton, and Talbot of the press committee left to-night to renew the invitation to Horace Greeley, who, it is hoped will be present Wednesday next. Monday will be the Irish day, the Dublin band being expected. A good programme has been prepared for the 4th of July.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

NEW YORK, June 28.

The strike of a portion of the trades continues, but the proceedings of the men are devoid of interest. The metal workers confess that at least one-third of those originally engaged in the strike have returned to work on the 10 hour system, but say that early next week they will have abundant funds, and that the men who have returned to work at 10 hours will then all strike again with more determination than before. The workmen in the continental iron works who resumed work at 10 hours, are reported as out again already. The Employers Central Executive Committee are preparing to issue tracts to workingmen, explaining the situation, in the hope of convincing the more reasonable. The employers' union is intended not to defeat the present strike, which they think nearly ended, but to adopt of measures to prevent its recurrence.

Twenty-five members of the New York Schuetzen Corps sail to-morrow in the steamer Deutchland for Europe, to attend the great shooting festival in Hanover.

Negotiations looking toward obtaining the assent of Orangemen to parade in citizens' dress on their anniversary has been unsuccessful.

J. Conklin and Ed. J. Smith were sentenced respectively to twenty and ten years to State Prison for highway robbery.

The jury in the United states Circuit Court found a verdict of $4.990 in gold in favor of Horace J. Fairchild against ex-Collector Barney, for excess of duties imposed on imported goods.

In the Court of General Sessions this afternoon, the case of John Meeker charged with selling obscene literature, was taken up. The assistant District-Attorney who followed in his opening remarks to the jury, made the startling statement that the Young Ladies' Seminaries in this city and vicinity were actually flooded with books and pictures of the most indecent kind, surreptitiously introduced. They were sometimes hidden in boquets of flowers, and sometimes in parcels of nuts and candy, by such men as the prisoner.

Gideon Frost and J. G. L. Bockcher, members of the Brooklyn Committee of Fifty, during an interview with Mayor Powell to-day, made serious charges against the Commissioners of Charities and the management of the Flatbush Lunatic Asylum. They claim that four fifths of the total expense of the institution, or $84,000, is either paid for the board of the insane of other counties, or for the support of the insane of our own county, whose friends and relatives are able to provide for them; or the money collected from such, has been appropriated in a manner unknown to the Committee. The loss to the taxpayers of Kings County by whatever cause occasioned, the committee believe is not less than $40,000.

WASHINGTON, June 28.

A long protest in behalf of the Indians, signed by J. P. Folsom chairman for several tribes, was received here. THE DAILY FREEMAN.

CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 29, 1872.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

Augustus Schepmoes has been sick for some weeks with chills and fever. We are glad to learn he is improving.

Trout.

Richard Broas and Charley Van Anden had the nicest lot of trout, last night, that has come to the city this season. They caught them.

Religious.

The Rev. Dr. Miller from Princton, N. J., will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church of upper Kingston to-morrow morning and evening.

The Wallkill Valley Railway.

The work of laying track on the Wallkill Valley Railway was resumed Friday morning. We anxiously await the sound of the steam whistle in this city.

Run Over.

A child whose name we could not learn was run over in Garden street on Friday and injured in the foot, it was at first supposed seriously, but it proved not to be so.

Prices of Coal Lowered.

On Thursday the Del. & Hud. Canal Company lowered their price for chestnut coal to $4.00, and that for stove coal to $4.50. These prices are lower than they have been for years.

The Pound.

There is much complaining over the negligence of the authorities, in allowing cattle to run at large. A few days ago a train on the railroad had to stop to allow them to get off the track. This won't do.

Sunday School Anniversary.

On Sunday (to-morrow) afternoon at 3:30 the eighteenth anniversary of the Union Sunday School commences in the Children's Church, Ponckhockie. The exercises are to consist of singing by the school, and the Rev. Messrs. Ledyard, Cooper and Bates are expected to be present and address the congregation. An invitation to attend is extended to the public.

Election of Officers.

The following were elected officers of Minnehaha Division No. 83 Sons of Temperance Friday evening, June 28th: George B. Mulks, W. P.; Albert Manterstock, W. A.; John B. Alliger, R. S.; Hasbrouck Alliger, A. R. S.; B. E. Caddy, F. S.; Peter Weaver, Treas.; Rev. E. D. Ledyard, Chap.; Myron S. Allen, Con.; Eliza Caddy, A. Con.; Martin L. Parish, I. S.; Nathan A. Sims, O. S.

A Bigger Baby.

There was one happy father on North Front street, in upper Kingston, last Tuesday. He had just received a present of a baby that weighed 10½ pounds. He bragged very much about that baby, but on Wednesday morning had his plume completely shorn, by the appearance in a family on Fair street of a baby that weighed just 11 pounds. Both fathers are happy, but No. 1 don't brag any more.

Incendiary Fire.

An alarm of Fire Thursday night in upper Kingston brought out the fire department in a hurry, and really broke up the Kingston Academy exhibition. The fire was found in an out house on Pine street near the burying ground. The fire was the work of an incendiary, as a tin can that had contained kerosene, and a large ball of lamp wick was found at the place where the fire caught in the building. The loss was slight. The building belonged to the ground and was used for the reception of dead bodies until their burial.

CITY NOTES.

Workmen are engaged repairing the roof of the Rondout Baptist church.

The N. Y., K. & Syracuse R. R. will run excursion trains on the Fourth.

As soon as the Wallkill Valley Railway gets up here the farmers of the Valley talk of sending their milk this way to market.

U. S. Steam Revenue Cutter Gen. Grant left her anchorage off the mouth of the creek at 8:30 A. M. on Friday and proceeded to New York.

The cherry crop is very large hereabouts.—Housewives have great delight in canning them. In these cool days a siesta over a hot stove is lovely.

Miss Emily Pitt Stevens, who drew a pistol at a public meeting in San Francisco, was formerly from Kingston. She has considerable celebrity as a writer in California.

Exercises Kingston High School.

The closing exercises of the Kingston High School, Mr. T. B. Barringer Principal, were held Thursday afternoon in the Academy rooms, and were very satisfactory to the many patrons and friends of the school who were present. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Stitt. Then followed the singing of choruses, duettes, solos, instrumental music, recitations, declamations, dialogues and the reading of a paper edited by the pupils. The singing was under the direction of Miss Magdalen Brodhead, Mr. Barringers First Assistant, and was a very great credit to that lady. At the close of the exercises prizes were given to the two best spellers, Misses Alice Chipp and Susie Masten, and prizes were to have been given to the two who had made the greatest advancement in drawing, but as the Committee had not given in their decision, the presentation was postponed. The interest of the occasion was very much augmented by the presentation of a beautiful Chromo, "Sunset on the Elbe" by the pupils to the Principal. Mr. Barringer showed, by the emotion which he manifested in his reply, that the handsome gift was not only unexpected and highly appreciated, but that his pupils held a warm place in his esteem and affections. Alderman F. L. Westbrook, represented the Board of Education and made some very happy and well timed remarks. He was listened to with much pleasure and profit by all, and especially by the pupils, with whom he is a favorite speaker.

The examination of the pupils of the High School department, which was concluded on Wednesday, was very satisfactory and creditable to both teacher and pupils, the whole class having passed the requisite examination for entering the Academy. The work of Mr. Barringer as Principal of the High School, reflects great credit upon himself and upon the State Normal school of Albany which graduated him as a teacher. The afternoon entertainment was closed with the benediction by Rev. Dr. Stitt. Prof. Charles Curtis, the Principal of the Academy, conducted the exercises. He is an able teacher, and a perfect gentleman in manners.

Kingston Academy Exhibition.

The Annual Exhibition of the Kingston Academy was given Thursday night at Music Hall, in Upper Kingston.

The night was intensely hot, and the hall was densely packed, so it was only by the continual use of hats and fans that the audience escaped suffocation.

The front of the stage was beautifully ornamented with wreaths of flowers, which served as a sort of foreground for the students, and as the ladies were dressed in white, made the picture a fine one. In the rear of the stage on the wall was the following sentence, "Forsan et haec olim meminisse juvabit," in evergreens.

The programme consisted of twenty-seven exercises, and was certainly a most formidable one, though we must give the ladies credit for condensing their compositions, as they were very good, and what is usually unknown at these entertainments,—short.

One decidedly pleasing feature of the exhibition, was the lavish manner in which the friends of the performers showed their appreciation by showering upon them boquets of flowers. Each of the actors received some half-dozen, while to some of them was given double that number. These flowers were piled on the stage in front of their owners, and filled the air with their fragrance.

The singing by the school was conducted by Prof. Tomlins. It was not very good, owing probably to the fact that a number of the class who took part are not possessed of remarkably good voices, and to the want of attention shown by many of the lady singers. They could not help exchanging glances with their friends in the audience, and so would forget about the singing and drag wofully. The Solo by Miss Lillie Curtis, however, was sung well, without affectation, and with a voice remarkable for its sweetness. We think, however, Miss Curtis's voice lacks the power to fill Music Hall, and would sound much better in a smaller room. She is improving wonderfully, and runs the higher notes with astonishing ease.

The Salutatory or introductory composed by Miss Norma A. Frisselle and Mr. J. D. Ostrander, was read by Mr. Ostrander, in a clear tone of voice, so that every word was heard and appreciated by the audience.

An essay entitled "Thought," was read by Miss Lillie Curtis. This was somewhat metaphysical, and as every word could not be heard by the audience, it is doubtful whether it was judged according to its merits.

The declamation by John D. Eckert, was rendered in a cool and deliberate manner that bespoke for the future a good orator, and one who will not easily lose his balance. "Wishing," an essay by Miss Emma B. VanWagenen, was well read, and was a good, sensible composition. Of the declamation of John Mills, we can only repeat what we said concerning that of Eckert. These pieces were far the best of the declamations, and it was a question with us who deserved the 1st prize, Eckert, or Mills, to whom it was awarded.

The essay entitled "Fashion," was read in a clear and distinct tone by Miss Alice E. Van Gaasbeck. It contained much good advice, which we hope the ladies will follow, as also it contained a sarcastic hit at a certain fashionable church in this city. The last we fear was a little out of taste. "Poland's Hero" a declamation by Augustus H. VanBuren, was a speech far beyond the powers of a young orator, though he handled it remarkably well, considering that good actors find it a most difficult piece. "Curiosity," by Miss Kate E. Westbrook, was a composition full of good common sense. There were many in the audience who would do well to ponder on these words that were so well spoken. Of the Solo, "Il B'acio," by Miss Lillie Curtis, we have already spoken. When she had concluded the applause was tremendous, which caused her to repeat the last stanza. The boquets fairly rained upon the stage. Miss Curtis is certainly a favorite with an upper Kingston audience.

"What next?" an essay by Miss Norma Frisselle was a finely written composition of what we expect for the future. She received many plaudits.

"Tell's Apostrophe to Liberty," or what is more commonly known as "Tell in the Alps," was spoken by Mr. Harry Schoonmaker. He spoke in a rapid and somewhat nervous manner, which detracted from the force of the speech. His acting was good. "The Battle Field," by Jonathan D. Ostrander was a long speech, and an extremely difficult one to render. This gentleman has an excellent voice, and carried through his part well.

Declamations, "The Fireman" by Augustus Hayes, and "Shall we give up the Union," by Walter S. Fredenburgh, were well rendered. Let us here say one word in reference to the declamations. The young orators have not yet learned that there is such a thing as passion, as intenseness of expression, without loudness. They would do well to take a few lessons of the world's best tragedian, by seeing him in the character of Othello, or Shylock. They will then learn that feeling is not expressed by loudness, but by the orator's working himself up to that state which intensifies his voice, and then, and not until then, can he make his audience feel what he wishes to express.

The Valedictory was composed by Misses Van Wagenen, Van Gaasbeck, Westbrook and Curtis, and was read exceedingly well by Mr. Ostrander. It contained the usual amount of flattery, well punctuated, not sparing any one, giving a goblet full to Prof. Charlouis, their French teacher.

Hon. Marius Schoonmaker, the President of tthe Board of Education, then read a neat little speech, and presented the diplomas to the graduating class, who were composed of—M. Lillie Curtis, Norma A. Frisselle, Jonathan D. Ostrander, Kate E. Westbrook, Alice E. Van Gaasbeek, Emma E. Van Wagenen, all of Kingston. Mr. S. then made a somewhat long address, or rather farewell speech to the audience. He gave a history of the Kingston school from the time it was first founded, until the present. The audience became very restless before it was half finished, and the buzzing and confusion was such that hardly a word could be heard. Before he had finished, the cry of fire outside and the ringing of fire bells made the confusion for a time a perfect bedlam. About half the audience rushed down stairs, when the exercises were finished.

Mr. DeWitt, one of the prize Committee, awarded the first prize to John Mills, and the second to Harry Schoonmaker.

The "Graduates' Farewell" was then sung, the Benediction given, and the audience dispersed, well pleased with the entertainment.

Mount Marion Hotel.

On Monday, the 17th inst., the Mount Marion Hotel was first opened to the public. As this is designed to take a leading position among the first-class summer resorts, it becomes necessary that the public should know a few of the benefits, at least, to be derived by a visit to this place.

Mount Marion is situated just back of Saugerties village, about one hour's drive from the landing, and about one and a half hours' from Kingston, in the region known as Plattekill. The Mount has long been known and recognized as a favorite spot for a hotel, and this knowledge brought Mr. Warren Leland here a couple of summers ago, who pronounced it one of the finest places in the country, but Saratoga claimed his undivided attention. Last fall Mr. H. S. Roosa purchased quite a tract of land on the mount, and contracted for the building of a hotel. The house was erected, and it is a credit to the enterprise and spirit of Mr. Roosa. It is large, airy and cheerful, built so as to crowd none and to furnish each room with a magnificent landscape view.—Embarking on the ferry-boat from Tivoli on the arrival of the train or steamer, you land at Saugerties, and after a short, pleasant ride over a smooth road and climbing a winding hill, you come suddenly upon the Mount Marion Hotel. The view that first meets your eye is beyond description, and you stand in silent admiration at the grandeur of the spectacle.—It is a vast and changeful, a majestic, an interminable landscape, a fairy, grand and delicately colored scene, with rivers for its lines of reflection; with highlands and the vales of states for its shadowing, and far off mountains for its frame. To the north the eye rests upon the Green Mountains of Vermont, from which that state derives its name, while the capital of our state, Albany, holds up her Knickerbocker head to let us know that she still lives. Running the eye down nearer to us it rests upon the beautiful city of Hudson, the river winding at its feet, and nearer still is the pleasant village of Catskill.

To the east and directly at our feet is beautiful Saugerties, unappreciated by the outer world, her natural developments being more pleasing than any other village of the Hudson as a summer resort. Looking over her there lies before you a vast landscape stretching as far as the eye can take in the picture, a mass of earth, with its fields, its meadows, its forests, its villages and cities scattered in the distance. Its streams and lakes diminish like the dwellings of man into insignificance. Before you winds the sweeping river, the mighty Hudson, lessened to a rill—or it might be likened to a ribbon laid over a ground of green, with here and there a sail or steamer dotting its bosom. Still further on are the swelling uplands, and then far along the horizon mountains piled on mountains melting into the distance, rising range above range, till the last and loftiest, the Berkshire hills, fades into the blue sky. Far off toward the south lie the Highlands with their morning incense. Nearer is the winding of the river before Hyde Park. The city of schools and Yankee adventure, Pokeepsie, (30 miles away) with its tall steeples is plainly visible, while the new born city of Kingston, the county seat of Ulster, designed through the enterprise of her citizens, especially among the Rondout portion, to become one of the leading cities in the state, stands proud and erect at the knowledge that she too is one of the cities of the nation.

One hundred years ago our forefathers stood looking from this very mount at the burning village of Kingston, to-day their children sit upon the piazza of a handsome Hotel looking down upon the city of Kingston. How the scene has changed!

While the view from here is unexcelled by any place in the country, while we can see 55 miles of the Hudson, almost half its length, while the spires of 65 churches reaching toward heaven are visible, while 31 villages and 3 cities are scattered on the plain before us, you must not forget that there too you get the whole range of the Catskills at a glance in the rear, with a beautiful valley of about 5 or 6 miles intervening, making one of the loveliest views the human eye ever dwelt upon.—There are the different cloves, ever fresh and green, and to the left shooting among the hills are the cars on the N. Y., K. & S. R. R. Snuggled among the Catskills to the north is the old mountain house, seeming as if it had out-lived its usefulness and ready to give way to younger and superior enterprise. And here too, between us and the Catskills, is p rt of the vast quarrying interest of the country, where hundreds of men are employed taking out North River bluestone.

Last, but not least, is the fact that at our feet is a sulphur spring, where water can be obtained as good as at Sharon. Taken all in all, this is one of the finest summer resorts in the country and it will be largely patronized.

"Friends of my heart, lovers of nature's works,
Let my transport you to those wild blue mountains
That roar their summits near the Hudson wave,
Though not the loftiest that begirt the land,
They yet sublimely rise, and on their heights
Your souls may have a sweet foretaste of heaven."

Using a Black Boy as a Disgrace—A School Marm of the Period.

Justice Curry's Court at Peekskill on Thursday last was the scene of considerable excitement, occasioned by the arrest of Sarah E. Hodgskins, a school marm in Annsville district, on complaint of Gilbert Tompkins, charged with having on Wednesday cruelly beaten his son, a boy of eight years, a scholar under her charge, for disobeying her orders.—The preliminary examination proved that the disobedience consisted in the refusal of the boy to sit alongside of a colored boy, which the teacher had ordered him to do as a matter of punishment. Mr. Edward Wells appeared for the defendant, and bail was given for appearance at the next session.

The Greatest Excitement

SINCE THE FLOOD!

A. M. Low's

PROCLAMATION

FOR 1872,

READ IT!

A. M. LOW, the popular Boot and Shoe Dealer of No. 19 Wall street, City of Kingston, desires the people to know that he has stocked his store for the spring and Summer of 1872 with all the very latest styles of Boots and Shoes, which he is now offering at a figure that is an inducement for all in want of foot gear to extend to him their patronage. In the line of Men's Wear he introduces for the season a superior article of hand-made shoes, manufactured by Messrs. HANAN & REDDISH, of New York City. They are decidedly the "nobbiest" style ever placed in the market, made from the very best material and of the very best finish, and for which he is the sole agent in the City of Kingston. Besides these he has all other kinds in market of all the various shapes, styles, quality and prices.

Low has also the exclusive sale in this city of Women's and Misses' Shoes manufactured by Reynolds Brothers of Utica, and Munsen & Co. of Albany, articles celebrated for their beauty, finish, durability and peculiarity of preserving their shape. He is selling heaps of them daily, which is the best advertisement they can have, for everybody who buys them recommends them to their neighbors. As usual his stock is full in all the other grades of this line and will be kept so during the season.

Boys, Youths, Misses, Children, and Infants all go to Low's to get their feet clothed, for there they can find a stock to select from that beats anything outside of New York City. Had he space he would like to enumerate further—but it would fill this paper, and therefore he is obliged to stop with the simple announcement that he has the LARGEST STORE AND STOCK IN THE CITY—that he purchases at Wholesale and sells at retail, and that he is determined to keep the lead in his line of business, and not seeking a monopoly, invites competition from all sources, confident that he shall at least make his store worthy of patronage and one of the leading features of the new City of Kingston.

42m3 Respectfully, A. M. LOW, No. 19 Wall street, Kingston.
